SOCIETY NOTES

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Carter to Mr. Alfred Miller has been published in the St. Rose church. The wedding will take place January the nineteenth. That evening a handsome reception to be given at the home of Miss Carter. The bride to be is the pleasant young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Carter, and Mr. Miller is a progressive young farmer.

Mr. John Watts, who arrived here recently from Panama, was a conspicuous personage at the reception given at the Cloverport Hotel last Tuesday night by the Misses P. E. Mr. Watts entertained the young people the entire evening with original stunts and kept all the guests in a rather hilarious humor.

Among the K. M. I. Cadets who left last week to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida, was Mr. Raymond Parker of this city. He is one of Cloverport's extraordinary young men.

Miss Maude Dellaven entertained most delightfully a small company of friends at her home Wednesday evening. The game forty-two was played enthusiastically after which delicious refreshments were served.

Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Behen, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Fubanks, Miss Ray Heyser, Miss Anne Crenshaw, Miss Cleopha Weatherholt, Messrs. David Phelps, Lawrence Murray, Lafayette Behen, Dr. Casper, and Mr. and Mrs. Wick Dellaven.

The Baptist folks are receiving in visitations to the "Old Home Day" celebration which will be held in the church parlor on the evening of January the twenty-seventh. The reception committee, Mrs. Sam Conrad, Mrs. R. L. Oelze, Mrs. Jas. Cordrey, Mrs. Joe Fitch and Mrs. Tom Tousey are very busy getting ready for the occasion which promises to be one of the happiest social affairs in the history of the church.

The annual candy pulling which is given by Mrs. Robert Pierce for the benefit of the missionary societies of the Methodist young people, will be held at her home tomorrow evening. A free will offering will be acceptable from all who attend.

Miss Alice Waggoner delightfully entertained a number of friends on last Sunday to an all day dinner party at her beautiful home on the pike. She was assisted by her sisters Misses Dora and Ollie. Those present were: Misses Margaret Julia and Katie Wroe, Esther Popham, Elizabeth Mitchell and Emeline Lewis, Messrs. Edmund Wroe, William Mitchell, Ernest Popham, James Lawson, Paul Lewis, James and Allen Waggoner.

The many friends and neighbors of Squire T. M. Bates met at his elegant new home on Saturday evening and were delightfully entertained with music and conversation. The reception was a termination of a house party consisting of Mr. B. F. Frank and family, Mr. C. H. Howard and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Mason brought their photograph and several dozen selected records which were much appreciated by all present. Beautiful violin music was rendered by Mr. W. T. Mason and Squire Bates, accompanied by Miss Lillian Bates. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Frank and Miss Valeria Frank; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Howard and little daughter Julia. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wells, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Mason, Mr. Chas. Barber, Miss Ethel Marlow, Miss Josie Wells. All had a very enjoyable time and look forward to another meeting at the same hospitable home.

WINS LAMBREQUIN.

Sherman Ball Should Come Back Home To Make Use Of His Prize.

W. S. Ball is a lucky man. He proved it this morning when he entered the office of the Secretary of State with a big box in his arm. Mr. Ball is connected with the Secretary of State's office and several days ago, when two little girls entered and asked him to take a chance on a piece of woman's work, a hand-made lambrequin, he donated. Today the lambrequin is his, and he is at a loss to know what to do with it.

"Now, if I was a married man," he quizzed, "I would give it to my wife for a Christmas present. Had I drawn the gas range the other day I would be tempted to ask some girl to marry me, and we would go to housekeeping."

He asked Miss McDaniel, stenographer in M. C. Rankin's office, whether she had a gas stove but she shook her head, and looked like she was glad of it.

"I had no idea I would be so lucky when I took the chance," said Mr. Ball.

Several of the young women about the State House to whom he showed the lambrequin placed a value of $12 upon it.—Frankfort News.

ANDERSON

On Trial In Daviess County Court, Withdraws From Church.

The trial of banker T. S. Anderson on charge of false swearing was resumed in the Daviess County Court Monday. One hundred additional talesmen were ordered summoned by Judge Breckhead to appear in court and the jury was made up of this special venire.

At the First Presbyterian services Sunday the pastor, Rev. L. H. Hudson, read a statement from the Board of Elders in reference to the action last Sunday in declining to allow Behen, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Fubanks, the communion services. The Elders admit that they made a mistake in preventing Mr. Anderson from officiating. Mr. Anderson and his family withdrew from the church.

Married In Cincinnati.

A colored wedding that comes as a surprise to the groom's friends is that of W. T. Dean and Annie Jones which took place in Cincinnati, Dec. 30. He is the son of one of Ben Deau, of Tar Springs. The bride and groom have gone to Chicago to make their home.

Large Shipment.

From the Star Roller Mills Saturday, Mr. Hardin shipped 20 head of hogs, John Warfield shipped 8 and Bud Isome shipped 29.

AROUND THE WORLD.

Silvio Ortonas Honored Cloverport With A Short Visit Last Tuesday Evening.

Perhaps the four-leaf clovers and pretty girls of Cloverport will make a line in the "History of The World" which will be written after a four years journey by Silvio Ortonas, Frenchman; Adolph Schneider, German; Albert Wilkes, American; and Prof. Alfredo Battelli, Italian.

The four men are making a world pedestrian tour for scientific research and investigating the political, social and industrial conditions. Mr. Ortonas spent last Tuesday evening at the St. George Hotel, and while here gathered a brief history of Cloverport. He and his companions are newspaper men.

WEDDING.

Of Miss Dortha Wethington and Mr. Clifton Stinnett Solemnized Yesterday.

Clifton Stinnett and Miss Dortha M. Wethington, daughter of W. R. Wethington of Hardinsburg, were married yesterday morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. Cyril Thomas at St. Romanus Church at Hardinsburg.

The bride and groom are well known and popular young people, and begin their wedded life with the happiest wishes of hosts of friends here and elsewhere in the county.

FRAIZE'S STORE

HOBOS' RETREAT.

Frank Williams Had Enjoyable Time Thursday Night, But Landed In Jail Friday.

"LOOKED GOOD AND EASY."

For the third time recently Fraize's store has been visited by thieves. Thursday night a young man broke through the iron bars of the cellar window and made his way to the clothing department where he exchanged his old suit for some new duds. It is thought he must have found himself perfectly at home for from all evidences he built a fire in the office stove and enjoyed himself until the break of day.

The results of his night's work were not visible, and after a polite interview at the depot the next morning, Marshall DeHaven arrested him.

He "fessed up" and told Mr. Fred Fraize, the general manager of the store, that notwithstanding the barred doors and windows, things looked too good and easy to pass by.

After exchanging his new togs for his old friends, the fellow was taken to the county jail at Hardinsburg. He gave his name as Frank Williams and said his home was in Cincinnati.

Prospects Brilliant.

"I see you got married yesterday, Chleo. Are your prospects brilliant?" "Ya-as. Mah husband's friends brought me to 'mo' washing'a."—The January Circle Magazine.

NEW TAR SPRINGS

Mr. Jake Merserve Intends to Open Summer Resort--Old Play Grounds Will Have Rival.

When the roses bloom again and the warm days come, Mr. Jake Merserve will open the new Tar Springs on his place enroute to the long-loved resort, "Tar Springs." Information comes from a most reliable source that a hotel for every convenience will be erected by Mr. Merserve in the early spring.

The ground was bought last year from Mr. Julian Brown, and there are ten acres. The scenery is beautiful and the cliffs are a fine spring of tar water.

Editor Wants To Go

Dave Duncan, editor of the Meade County Messenger, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from Meade county. He was at the meeting of the Kentucky Press Association Wednesday and got the assurance of most of the editors of their support in the race, but Dave is of the opinion that real voters will do him more good than any thing else. Other probable candidates are: Gus Richardson, Frank Withers and Jesse Herndon.—Breckenridge Democrat.

INDIGESTION ENDS.

Misery From Your Disordered

Stomach Goes In Five

Minutes.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of a case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will occasionally take a little Diapensin after eating.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested, nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Distension, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bloatingness, Heartburn, Waterbrash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches when the stomach are absolutely unknown, where this effective remedy is used. Diapensin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. Each triangle will digest all the food you can eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapensin from your druggist and start taking today and by tomorrow you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

FIGHTING THE BAD MEN OF THE PLAINS BY BUFFALO BILL

I HAVE often been asked for stories about the "bad men" of the west in the early days. I am going to tell now of my first "run in" with the worst kind of white men that then infested the frontier. These were horse thieves. And horse stealing in those days was a crime that came close in ranking with cold blooded murder.

One I wanted a grisly bear skin or, rather, one of my sisters wanted it for a rug. I had promised as soon as I should have time to get her one, for in those times a big grisly coat was not shot in one day. It meant a long trip through the hills and more than a little danger.

After shooting a bear and skinning him I started back, but the going was hard. By sunset I saw I couldn't hope to get back to camp that night. So I looked about for a good, sheltered spot to camp. Just then my horse whinnied. His call was answered from a hollow just behind the creek bed along which I was riding. I dismounted, fastened him and, rifle in hand, went on to investigate.

There, hidden in a little gulch, were about twenty horses. They weren't guarded. Looking round about, I saw a dugout about a hundred yards up the hill. Lights appeared through the cracks. I clambered up to learn who was there.

I knocked at the blanket door. The voices I had heard as I climbed the slope were hushed all at once. Then I heard a half dozen sharp clicks. That meant the cocking of rifles or revolvers. I began to wonder what company I had stumbled into. Before I could move back some one called:

"Who's there?"

"A friend and a white man," I replied.

The door opened, and a big, ugly looking fellow stepped forth and said: "Come in."

I accepted the invitation with some degree of fear and hesitation, which I endeavored to conceal, as I thought it was too late to back out and that it would never do to weaken at that point, whether they were friends or foes.

Upon entering the dugout, my eyes fell upon eight as rough and villainous looking men as I ever saw in my life. Two of them I instantly recognized as regulars who had been driving in Lew Simpson's train a few months before and had been discharged.

They were charged with the murdering and robbing of a man named, having stolen his horses. It was supposed that they had left the country. I gave them no signs of recognition, however, desiring to make it seem as though I were in ignorance as to who I was. It was a hard crowd, and I concluded the sooner I could get away from them the better.

I felt confident that they were a band of horse thieves.

"Where are you going, kid, and who's with you?" asked one of the men, who appeared to be the leader of the gang.

"I am entirely alone. I left Horseshoe Station this morning for a bear hunt, and, not finding any bears, I had determined to camp out for the night and wait till morning," said I, "and just as I was going into camp a few minutes ago I saw a man and a few hundred yards away, and I heard one of your horses whinnying, and then I came to your camp."

"Where's your horse?" demanded the boss thief.

"I left him down at the creek," I answered.

They looked at each other, and then I thought that would never do, as it would be to use without any means of escape, and I accordingly said in hopes to throw them off the track, "Captain, I'll leave my gun here and go down and get my horse and come back and stay all night."

But my clever little game did not work at all, as one of the desperadoes spoke up and said:

"Jim and I will go down with you after your horse, and you can leave your gun here all the same, as you'll not need it."

"All right," I replied, for I could certainly have done nothing else.

"Come along," said one of them, and together we went down the creek and soon came to the spot where my horse was tied. One of the men unlatched the animal and said, "I'll lead the horse."

"Very well," said I. "I've got a couple of sage hens here. Lead on."

I picked up the sage hen which I had killed a few hours before and followed the man who was leading my horse, while his companion brought up the rear. The nearer we approached the dugout the more I dreaded the idea of going back among the villains, one of them.

I then instantly wheeled around and saw that the man ahead, who was only a few feet distant, had heard the howl and had turned to see what was the matter, his hand upon his revolver. We faced each other at about the same moment, but before he could fire, as he tried to do, I shot him dead in his tracks. Then, jumping on my horse, I rode down the creek as fast as possible, through the darkness and over the rough ground and rocks.

The other outlaws in the dugout, having heard the shot which I had fired, knew there was trouble, and they all came rushing down the creek.

After shooting a bear and skinning him I started back, but the going was hard. By sunset I saw I couldn't hope to get back to camp that night. So I looked about for a good, sheltered spot to camp. specimen of manhood and one of the most deadly shots with rifle or pistol that ever lived. In his enthusiasm as a Union soldier he made a detour around, down into Texas and back to southwest Missouri and joined the Texans under an assumed name and accepted service as a Confederate spy, consequently giving himself the double danger of a spy's fate. Therefore by this means he became of immense service to the Union forces.

For many months he was confidential secret service agent for the Confederate forces under General Price in an invasion of Kansas and in one battle while among their advance guard he saw a maneuver of which he thought the Union general should be informed, and therefore made a dash from the rebel to the opposing lines.

His action was so sudden that the southerners thought his horse had been snatched. The audacity of his movements did not dawn on them for a few moments, when, with yells, a squad took up hot pursuit. Both armies watched in breathless suspense, but, always famed for picking superior mounts, he quickly distanced all save one, who followed close up behind him, firing several shots which whistled close to his ear. Just when Hickok's horse was compelled to vault a small creek he turned in his saddle and with his unerring aim dropped the gallant pursuer from his horse and rode safely into the Union lines. Here he delivered his information to General Pleasanton, which turned the tide of the day.

Probably the most noted event in his career was his single handed fight with Jacob McCandless and his gang of nine men at Rock Creek, western Kansas, while riding pony express in 1861. This was his first great fight while covering his route, armed only with two Colt revolvers. He halted at Rock Creek Station to find the stock tender dead and his wife excited by his presence. As he approached she exclaimed:

"My heavens, Bill, McCandless and his gang are in the neighborhood, or were this morning!"

This gang of bandits had been laying a trap for Hickok to get him out of the way. Rushing to the rock mound and get back, he saw several heads pop up out of the grass, and a bullet struck the door jamb. Jumping back and telling the lady to escape, he was fortunate to find a loaded rifle left by the husband, which the McCandless gang did not think of, as they saw that Bill was armed only with six shooters. There were some rally and hallooing between him and McCandless of a defiant nature when McCandless and nine bandits rose and, with a yell, charged for the door. They deemed his taking the chance of losing some of their men and making a quick charge. Bill's instructions were to me in such cases, "Will, alight, get the leader." This he did, as he fired straight at McCandless, the bullet striking him full in the heart, and he dropped instantly. By this time the desperadoes were close upon the cabin, which he emptied with the revolvers through the cabin door. Four men fell dead, besides McCandless, at this stage of the game.

Although wounded with buckshot and bullet and struck over the head with a rifle that caused him to bleed at the mouth and nose, he still "stayed with 'em." At this time, when he himself, the cabin was filled with smoke, and anything he struck or hit was an enemy, and in the gloom people

"I shot him dead in his tracks."

I suppose by this time they reached the man whom I had knocked down that he had recovered and hurriedly told them of what had happened. They did not stay with the man whom I had shot, but came on in hot pursuit of me. They were not mounted and were making better time down the rough mountain than I was.

At last they came so near that I saw that I must abandon my horse. I jumped to the ground and gave him a hard slap with the butt of one of my revolvers, which I started him on down the valley, while I scrambled up the mountain side. I had not ascended more than forty feet when I heard my pursuers coming closer and closer. I quickly hid behind a large pine tree, and in a few moments they all rushed by me, being in the direction of the horse as they so doubt supposed I was mounted on his back. As soon as they had passed and I climbed further up the steep mountain, and, knowing that I had given them the slip and feeling certain I could keep out of their way, I at once struck out for Horseshoe Station, which was twenty-five miles distant. I had very hard traveling at first, but upon reaching lower and better ground I made good headway, trailing all night and getting into the station just before daylight, footsore, weary and generally played out.

I immediately walked up the men of the station and told them my adventure. Since Hickok happened to be there, and he at once organized a party to go out in pursuit of the horse thieves.

We had a brisk ride and arrived in the immediate vicinity of the thieves' rendezvous at about 10 o'clock in the morning. We approached the dugout cautiously, but soon getting in close proximity to it we could discover no horses in sight. No one was inside, and the general appearance of everything indicated that the place had been deserted; that the birds had flown. But luck indeed proved to be the case.

Among one of my earliest acquaintances was a young man, older than myself, who was destined to become famed in frontier history, while at the same time legendary gossip has caused him to be known as "Wild Bill," standing out alone to the red men.

In our early youth we were associated in many adventures on the plains as Indian warriors, wagon trail hunters and trappers, and we happened to be on the same side of the fence when the civil war between the north and the south led the plains all most alone to the red men.

"Wild Bill" soon became one of the most noted men in the confidence of the Union generals in the extreme southwest. He was a magnificent

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so many of its victims die suddenly. Many sudden deaths are caused by this heart disease, which is often the result of a failure or a rupture of the arteries of the heart. poes in little short of the splendid macadam roads of the north and east. "It depends entirely upon the character of the country through which the road passes," said Mr. Humphreys when asked what it all cost. "If it be good so that feel can be bought for six cents the road can be made for $1500 a mile. I may say that it costs from one-half to one-fifth as much as a macadam road cost, and it is as easily and as cheaply maintained."

"In a country where the people have never gone into the building of roads, it is not surprising that paying $2000 a mile seems prohibitive. Where the experiment is once made, however, we all know that the people, and especially the farmers, who usually at first are most violently opposed to the undertaking, demand that the roads be constructed and are most willing to bear the tax."

In explaining how easily the burden of taxation would be borne, even if the authorities of his county decided to expend a half million on the construction of a perfect system of high class roads, Mr. Humphreys said: "If the farmer, instead of hauling six bales of cotton with two mules, could haul one with one mule, he would be taxed for a bad road at a higher rate than anybody was ever taxed for a good road, not counting the wear and tear on mules and wagons."

"I have seen seed cotton in the pens in July which had been picked after the rains had begun to fall; the previous winter and which had not been hulled. The cotton which the gin was loaded because the road was too bad to travel. Think of the tax that man was paying, and that for a road he could not travel!"

Mr. Humphreys, who has taken a great interest in the splendid work being done by Director Page and who is apparently thoroughly familiar with the experiments and scientific advancements being made by that scholarly road expert, named a number of the public roads issued by the office and told of the vast benefits the farmers of the country were receiving through their distribution. He referred especially to the efficacy of the self-lubricating road builder, 220, and the roller and road rollers from men who had attained the most gratifying results from the use of this simple but effective device.

Last year the 2,000,000 miles of post roads in the United States cost a vast fortune to the farmers and incidentally another to the city men, the added cost the farmers of hauling farm products over the well known lopsided roads being in the end paid by the men who consume them.

Statistics gathered from the leading countries of Europe prove that the cost of hauling over the American roads is far higher than in any other country, the average in France, Germany and England being 12 cents a ton mile last year to a cost of 25 cents here. That difference of 13 cents is the unnecessary tax burden the American farmer is forced to bear by the state and county authorities having been blind to the benefits which would follow an awakening to road improvement.

As the average length of the haul of all American farm products is 9.4 miles, it will be seen that every ton of goods the farmer who hauls in 12 cents to the hauling of a ton of similar products would cost the farmers of England, France or Germany, last year nearly $6,000,000,000 of farm products were hauled over the country roads. Charge that vast weight to tons, reduce it $12.24 a ton, and it proves an annual loss to the farmer of $22,460,000.

And the saving of that sum would be a trifle of a fraction of the benefit that would come from an immediate construction of perfect roads, for it but a portion of the weight annually hauled over these roads, the statistics of the department of commerce and labor after federal deductions placing the quantity of material at approximately 250,000,000 tons. The saving in the hauling of that stupendous bulk would be $365,600,000 annually.

It has been ascertained also that the construction of model highways in a rural community brings an immediate increase in the value of the property which such roads traverse. There are 840,000 acres of farm lands in the United States at the present time. Statistics show that the improved construction of perfect roads, from $2 to $30 an acre. Were all the acres to benefit even the lowest amount, the gain would be $1,680,000,000, which might be saved in hauling, and the total would be a sum large enough to gridiron the length and breadth of the continent with macadam roads as fine as those which have given the fame and wealth to France—the land of perfect highways.

EIGHT PAGES.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1909.

We received with pleasure, Monday, The Maryville Enterprise, containing an address delivered by Wilbur A. Hamman. It was delivered at the annual mid-winter meeting of the Athenian Literary Society, of Maryville college in Tennessee. His subject was Sam Houston. The oration shows marked literary talent and we read it with pride for the orator is one of our most progressive and ambitious home boys. We are truly glad to recognize the honor that has been given Wilbur Hamman in this great college and wish for him success as brilliant as his prospects.

Marked copies of The Breckenridge Democrat, The Woodford Sun, The Harrodsburg Democrat, The Blue-Grass Clipper, The Twice-a-Week Ledger and The Park City Daily News were received too late to be added to the list of newspapers that were extended thanks by the assistant editor of the News in last week's issue. However, the notices in the above named publications were most pleasing, and like the others, unexpected. They were greatly appreciated, and so was editor Walton's second editorial in the Kentucky State Journal. Had it appeared a day later, one might have thought it was prompted by editor Sommers' paragraph to Mr. Walton. The poetry in "The Commonwealth," of the Louisville Times was beyond comprehension—surely the poet was thinking of the other girl.

THE NEW LEAF.

Sunday morning at the Baptist church the Rev. James Lewis delivered a beautiful sermon, a most inspiring one; his theme being the passing of 1908 and the coming of 1909. Rev. Lewis said that the New Leaf was turned for man by the divine hand and the acceptance of its appointments was left solely to the mind and desire of the individual. While the bells were ringing out the old year and ringing in the new—God's call could be heard directing men in all the walks of life, and he added that those who, at this serious period of time, had not heard the still, soft voice were to be pitted. He further stated that in many cases, man's worst fault in 1908 was he kept his spiritual light turned so low that it failed to shine in his social and business circles. He emphasized the thought that the most important work for all in 1909 was to be fishers of men. His tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Francis M. Smith was loving and thoughtful.

Taking Rev. Lewis' discourse all in all, it was refreshing indeed and made one feel the New Leaf a great and glorious blessing.

WORK—THE EDUCATIONAL REMEDY.

Beneficial and interesting to the readers of the News, especially the teachers and pupils, is the "Educational Column" we have just opened. Supt. Joel H. Pile, who answers every beck and call of the county's schools, will gather the material and we hope its publication will tend to start a strong and steady work for perfect schools in Breckenridge. It is deplorable to hear of a child's school attendance in one term limited to three days! This fact was in Supt. Pile's notes last week. It is distressing to see the number of boys and girls between the ages of fourteen and twenty years absent from school in Cloverport. Who are responsible for this neglect of opportunities? Not the teachers, we dare say, but the parents and the pupils.

Work is the only remedy and every parent knows it must begin at home. It is hard for a child to leave the bright, warm fire and go out on the cold, bleak roads to the school house, when he cannot see the advantage that awaits him in an education. Shall we let him sit with his toes in the ashes and then when the fire has gone out and the powers of youth have slipped away, listen to his reproach, "Why didn't you make me study, I was too young to understand the use of knowledge?" There are many parents who have heard the reproof and others who will hear it, unless they put a foot foremost to keep their children in school. To our minds there was no decided enlightenment unless more school work takes place in the homes. To keep a child's attention on his studies means constant efforts on the part of the mother and father, and not until they make every advancement for the children will this young generation be trained properly. True, many parents are ignorant themselves and know not the value of information, but those realizing it should work without ceasing to see what good they can do for those who dwell in this pitiful darkness. We urge the teachers and parents to give Supt. Pile their co-operation in every way; if they do, Breckenridge will progress with the rest of Kentucky in educational development.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Beauchamp of near Raymond, have moved and will live here till Mr. Beauchamp can build a house on his farm.

The farmers are beginning to burn tobacco beds and prepare for another crop.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss. — "Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and weakness which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland. — "Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women." — Mrs. Joseph H. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful — or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

There has been a great revolution in farming here. Farmers are using more modern methods; growing more and better crops, on smaller scales; giving more time to live stock and to things that are a source of profit and pleasure.

Breckenridge County will soon rank with the Blue-grass in quality of horse tobacco.

David Dowell, the proprietor of the Karavan Hotel, says the boys with the grips are getting busy after the holidays.

C. S. Board and A. A. Richardson were in Louisville last week selling tobacco.

Messrs. Oda and Willie Penick of Custer were in Louisville a few days last week.

D. H. Smith bought a 4 year old mule from Robt. Wilson last week. Consideration, $150.

Russell Compton left last Monday for Lexington, where he is attending the State University, after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Compton.

Mora Galloway was here after a few days last week shaking hands with old friends.

Miss Cora Wood visited her brother, June Wood, at High Plains last week.

Note. — Please sign name next time. Thanks for the letter.

"From Bruner's Beardless Bunch." This is the inscription on the card attached to the handsome leather traveling bag to Dr. Ben L. Bruner, Secretary of State, by those employed in his office, this morning. The presentation speech was made by William Tecumseh Sherman Ball.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Dr. Ben L. Bruner's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHERNEY & Co., Toledo, O.

and Dr. Bruner responded by stating that there was only one fault with the bag, and that was, it is not large enough to hold the bunch of fond remembrances connected with the associations in his office.

To say that Dr. Bruner was tickled with his Christmas remembrance is putting it lightly. His eyes were beaming with pleasure when a 'News' reporter stepped into his office and began examining the traveling bag on his desk.

In red ink on one side of the "grip" are the letters, "B. L. B." Somebody wanted to know what these letters stood for, and M. H. Thatcher, State Inspector, who was standing by, suggested that they meant "Bright Little Boy." No other explanation was offered, and Dr. Bruner accepted the translation without demur.

W. E. Bidwell selected the traveling bag, and it certainly is a beauty. It is spacious and nobby, and looks as though it never would wear out.

"It confirms to my idea of what a Christmas present should be," said Dr. Bruner. "something useful. It came just at the time I needed it. For the last twelve years, I have been traveling over the country with an old 'grip' that looked like it might have gone through the war. I did carry it with me through two political campaigns." — Frankfort News.

Guaranteed by Severs Drug Co.

THE PLAIN TRUTH.

What More Can Cloverport People Ask?

When well-known residents and highly respected people of Cloverport make such statements as the following, it must carry conviction to every reader: J. C. Weatherholt, living on High St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "Two years ago I did not think it possible that I would ever be a well man and in fact I have settled up my affairs, believing it would not be possible for me to last much longer. I cannot describe the misery I endured from pains through my back and whenever I stooped, they would become so sharp that it really felt as if some one were thrusting a knife into my kidneys. I often became dizzy, dark spots would float before my eyes, and I would have to grasp something to keep from falling. My joints became swollen to twice their natural size and I lost weight rapidly until I was a skeleton. My kidney secretions contained a sediment and doctor's medicines did not help me nor did the many guaranteed cures that I took. It was finally my good fortune to hear about Doan's Kidney Pills, and I immediately procured a box at Fisher's drug store. I was surprised at the results received, and before I had used the contents of the first box, there was a marked improvement in my condition. Thus encouraged, I continued using them until completely cured, and I am now as well as any man in this county. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit and recommend them to every opportunity." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HANDS CRACKED RAW AND SCALY

Itched and Burned Terribly—Arms Affected, Too—Could Not Move Thumbs Without Flesh Cracking—Sleep and Work Often Impossible—Was Fairly Worn Out.

CUTICURA SOON CURED HIS FEARFUL ECZEMA

"About a year ago an itching humor began to appear around the back of my hand. It started in to spread, and pretty soon it covered both my hands and got up over my wrists and even up to the elbows. The itching and burning were terrible. My hands got all scaly and when I scratched, as I was doing a good part of the time, the surface would be covered with blisters and they got raw. The eczema got so bad in around the pit of my thumb that I could not move the thumb without deep cracks appearing. I went to my doctor, but his medicine could only stop the itching and did not seem to heal my hands up at all. At night I suffered so fearfully that I could not sleep, often trying awake until well toward morning, then waking up still tired. I am a chef and steward by trade and had to give up my place, as my hands were so terrible to look at that they did not like to have me around about the food. I could not bear to touch things with water, but when I positively had to get my hands clean I would rub them with oil.

"This act of business went on for three months and I kept trying zinc and ointments and such remedies with no particular benefit. I did not know what to do. I was fairly worn out. For a long time several friends kept asking me why I didn't use Cuticura and at last I thought I would. First I got the Cuticura Soap, then Cuticura Ointment and at last Cuticura Bandage. I put the Cuticura Ointment on at night, covering my hands with light cotton gloves. In the morning as you finger, leaving nice healed places where the scales had been. In a month I was cured and have kept so now for nine months. My hands and arms are perfectly clear of all traces of eczema and I think I am well rid of it. Valley H. Cox, 16 Somerset St., Boston, Mass. Sept. 25, 1908."

EDUCATIONAL COLUMN.

Edited By County Supt Joel H. Pike Hardinsburg, Ky.

Must Fasten Desks.

As an order of the County Board, all patent desks and patent recitation seats must be fastened, (screwed, not nailed) to the floor. This order is for the protection of school furniture, as its being set loosely upon the floor subjects it to a wear and a tare that will soon render it useless and necessitate the purchase of new furnishings. All trustees was carry out this order.

Furniture Must Be Protected.

The following order of the County Board has been found necessary: "In view of the fact that the county Board of Education has charge of and is responsible for both houses and furniture in the several districts throughout the county, it is hereby ordered that the trustee of each school sub-district in the county is hereby ordered to see that all patent desks now in use are securely fastened (screwed, not nailed) to the floor and that they are not removed from said fastenings for any such purposes as entertainments, dances, etc." Injury to school property has resulted from stacking it in the end of the room, or worse still, piling it up in the yard when rain or snow or other agency does its fatal work. All this while a thoughtless meriment within is forgetful of school and tax for school purposes.

The First School League.

Hendrick, the new school, on the Pike, has the honor of organizing the first school improvement league in the county. Just prior to the holidays the patrons and pupils banded themselves together to further beautify, care for and provide for their excellent new house. Calvin Hendrick was elected President and Elias Miller, Vice President of the league. Their first work will be to put the grounds in grass and plant trees in the yard.

League in Harned.

A goodly number of patrons met at the Harned school Friday afternoon upon the invitation of Mr. Driakel, the principal. There were several short talks preceding the organization of the School Improvement League, which numbers in its membership every patron and pupil present. Robert Weatherford was elected President; Jonas Gray, Vice President; Miss Hallie Beatty, Secretary; Milt Davis, Treasurer. They began work at once, naming as a Box Supper Committee, Mrs. James McCoy, Mrs. Eli Pike, Mrs. Steve Davis and Misses Rue Meador and Rea Gray. The supper will be given for the purpose of buying several new desks, which will be in immediate need for the Spring Normal. Moses Payne and Mrs. Jonas Gray were appointed a committee to solicit new members. The first meeting will be held next Friday night. Dr. Mather, of Hardinsburg, will address the audience at that time upon educational theme. A full house is promised. Much school interest is manifested at Harned, and preparations are being made to board from thirty to forty students this spring.

The January pay will be received some time this week, probably Saturday. It was due last Saturday but Supt. Crabbe stated that it could not be sent out before the 15th.

Each teacher will want to preserve the next issue of the News as it will contain the names of the entire eighty old trustees, with their addresses. This copy of the paper will save many letters of inquiry to this office, and will be of great service to the applicant for a school.

All public school trustees are exempt from working the public roads. Under the old law only the Chairmen were exempt.

Mrs. Sanders Thinks Her Time Has Come.

Mrs. Amanda Sanders who comes to town without fail every week was conspicuous Saturday for her absence which was caused by illness. The last time Mrs. Sanders was here she said she thought 'her time had come' and wanted the preachers to sing and pray for her. Friends were to see her Sunday and learned she has been ill ten days or more.

Mrs. Sanders has long been a successful agent for patent medicine and since the death of her husband has drawn a pension. Her friends sincerely trust that she will soon recover, for they miss her visits to town.

ONE OF THE OLDEST MEN IN THE WORLD

A Firm Believer in the Remedy, Peru-na.

A letter from J. C. Stephenson, of Waco, Texas, under date of March 10, 1908, states that "Isaac Brock, 120 years old, was born March 1st, 1788, in Buncombe County, North Carolina, about 30 miles up the French Broad river, north from Asheville. He now lives in this, McLennan County, Texas. I visited him last January. I asked him if he attributed his long life and good health to another remedy, as I had seen advertised in the papers. He said, he had never seen it. I then told him that I had seen it advertised that he attributed his good health and long life to the use of Peru-na. He said he had used Peru-na a good deal, and that it was a good medicine in case of colds."

In a letter dated Jan. 25, 1908, Mr. Brock says: "This leaves me well, I believe Peru-na to be a good tonic."

In speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says: "After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so."

"I Attribute My Extreme Old Age to the Use of Peru-na."

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 130 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States."

"I have always been a very healthy man, but, of course, subject to the affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature."

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peru-na, I have found it to be the best, if not the only reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy. It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine."

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease."

"I had several long stages with the grip. At first I did not know that Peru-na was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh I tried Peru-na for it, and found it to be just the thing."

In a later letter, Mr. Brock writes: "I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. I would not be without Peru-na."

Yours truly, Isaac Brock.

A letter dated July 8, 1906, written for Mr. Brock by his wife, Sarah J. Brock, states: "Last winter I had just gotten up out of a spell of sickness, when I commenced taking Peru-na. I think it proved my health very much."

Mr. Isaac Brock, 120 Years Old Last Birthday.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 120 years. For many years he resided at Boone Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

Born before the United States were formed. Saw 26 presidents elected. Peru-na has protected him from all sudden changes. Veterans of four wars. Shod a horse when 90 years old. Always conquered the grip with Peru-na. Witness to a land suit at the age of 110 years.

Some time ago, by request, Uncle Isaac came to Waco and sat for his picture, holding in his hand a stick cut from the grave of General Andrew Jackson.

Believe Peru-na the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal troubles.

Mr. Brock is a dignified old gentleman, showing few signs of decrepitude. His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 120 years ago.

Believe Peru-na the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal troubles.
